THE GALLOWS READY

Arrangements for the Execution of Murderer "Bud" Stone.

Loss of $20,000 in the Capon Business-Elkhart Elopers Caught at Topeka, Kan.-Two Suicides.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Feb. 5.-Barring executive interference, which is not likely to occur, James E. Stone, the sextuple murderer of the Wratten family, will be hanged in the Southern prison in the early morning of Friday, Feb. 16. Your correspondent visited the Prison South yesterday and had a long talk with the white-haired, ruddyfaced warden, Capt. James B. Patten. All the arrangements for the execution of Stone on the 16th have been carefully made. The gibbet, on which Stone will explate his crime, was built about five years ago to hang Benham, who had been sentenced to the extreme penalty. Benham came within five hours of hanging when his sentence was commuted to imprisonment. The engine of death is in a room near the murderer's cell. Stone will therefore be spared the torture of listening to the carpenters building his scaffold-an experience that many condemned criminals have had.

"Are you going to employ a professional hangman?" was asked. "I am not," replied the warden. "The law makes it the duty of the warden, and If I am alive and well I shall adjust the noose. It is an unpleasant duty-one of which any one would gladly be relieved, but I shall not shift it to another's shoulders. Should a contingency arise that would make it impossible for me to be present the deputy warden will, of course, take my place. I have made the subject of executions a careful study-bave attended several since I have been warden-and I hope to get through with the disagreeable job without an accident."

Warden Patten does not know what effect the swelling or wen on Stone's neck will have in arranging the noose. The swelling is on the left side of the neck where the knot of the noose is generally placed, just under the ear. The execution would probably be just as successful if the noose were arranged for the knot to be placed under the right ear, but the scaffold is so constructed as to make it recessary for the executioner to stand on the left side of the condemned. Captain Patten says, however, that the main hing is to get the noose low enough on the neck so as to shut off the condemned's wing instantly. If this is done successfully death ensues at once, whether the neck is broken or not If this is done amconsciousned: occurs almost simultaneously with the tightening of the noose. It is possible to produce immediate unconsciousness by simply lying against a cord that strikes low down on the neck.

The various stories about the possible postponement of the execution on account of an alleged irregularity in the issuing of the death warrant have no foundation in fact. Everything is regular, and the hanging will take place on time. Stone will be given a drop of six feet. The rope which will be used is a hand-made hempen cord, three-fourths of an inch in diameter, manufactured especially for the occasion by a Louisville rope maker. It cost a ten-dollar bill. It is a soft, three-strand twisted rope. The noose is already tied, and after the noose is treated with a coating of tallow and plumbago to make it work swiftly, will be ready for adjustment to the gallows beam. The warden has two other halfinch ropes, one of which remains as it was arranged for Benham. Fearing the possibility of the cord breaking the Warden concluded to get a stronger one. The one ready for Stone looks as if it is strong enough to hang a horse.

The death watch will not be put over Stone until the week of execution. "I am satisfied Stone would not commit suicide if he had the means and opportunity," said Captain Patten. Stone maintains his usual demeanor. He evidently does not yet realize that the shadow of death is near. It is thought that the placing of the death watch may cause him to change; that when the time comes when he must necessarily abandon hope of a reprieve he may weaken and lose his apparently cool and collected demeanor. Visitors are not permitted to see him. There are many demands to see the infamous criminal, and the warden is overrun with requests to witness the final scene. These will not be granted. After the visit of his father a few days ago Stone furnished a new list of persons he, by law, is permitted to invite to witness the execution, repudiating the invitations heretofore made. The names furnished the warden, and who will be admitted if they present themselves, are P. H. Ragsdale, Nelson Gregory, John F. Ragsdale, John F. Ward, J. G. Leming, M. L. Bonham, Joshua A. Palmer, Washington

THE ELOPERS CAUGHT.

Miss Davenport's South Bend Friends Gone to Topeka After Her.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELKHART, Ind., Feb. 5.-H. Ackley Sackett, the silhouettist and adventurer, who eloped from here with Miss Francis Davenport, heiress and youngest daughter of ex-Senator B. L. Davenport, has been arrested in Topeka, Kan., and is in jail there according to private dispatches received from there to-day, on a charge of bigamy. Miss Davenport and Sackett, who were out of money, applied to George Crane, a Topeka business man well aclinted here, to get him to cash a draft for her. Crane telegraphed here for in-structions, and was told to use his influence to detain Miss Davenport, which he did, and relatives have gone after her to bring her back here if possible. Sackett is in jail in Topeka. He is now known to have a wife and three children in Jersey City, the wife supporing herself and family by keeping a confectionery stand on a ferry boat. The newspaper dispatches that have been published all over the country led to the discovery of the couple.

Miss Davenport Will Return.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 5 .- A decided sensation was created here this afternoon by the arrest of Harry A. Sackett, the silhouette artist, and detention of Miss Frances Davenport, who eloped from Elkhart, Ind., some days ago. Miss Davenport today called on George W. Crane, of the Crane Printing Company, an old friend of family, asking him to indorse a check. Her actions were peculiar, which led Mr. Crane to Investigate. The discovered in the Feith Block, and Sackett was arrested on a charge of adultery, they not having been married. Sackett says nothing criminal existed between them. Miss Davenport says she will return home with her brother and sister, who will arrive nere in the CAPONS AT 6 CENTS A POUND. Sad Blow to the Big Industry About Russiaville.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RUSSIAVILLE, Ind., Feb. 5.-The great capon industry, which has been a source of considerable income to the farmers of this community for several years, has met a sad fate this year on account of the general financial depression. The business has grown to no small proportions, having made rapid increase during the past two years. Almost every farmer in the country had pens ranging from fifty to 150 birds ready for this spring's market, and fully expected to fill his part of the contract made with the caponizers last fall, which contract pledged the payment of 10 cents per pound for the live capons for February delivery, and, as great care is necessary month ago James Shipp, living near Edinto winter them and properly fatten them burg, had a lot of hogs stolen, which were for market, much hard work has been done driven to Columbus and sold to a butcher.

introduced the business in this section, had about twenty hands engaged last fall, and succeeding in performing the operation on over 17,000 young roosters at an expense of over $1,400, and had his capons all contracted at a fair profit and, as he thought, to responsible dealers, but it appears now that, on account of the fatal drop in the capon market in New York and other Eastern cities, the contractors refuse, by some technicality in their contract, to take the stuff off his hands, and as Mr. Hobson has no capital to make his contract good he has been forced to cancel them, thereby loosing his year's work and the work of his employes. L. M. McDaniel had also engaged over eight thousand and for the same reasons had to rescind his contracts. Several other smaller dealers have made several thousand capons, and, taken altogether, it will create a loss to the capon raisers of almost $20,000. Local dealers are taking in the capons this week at 6 cents per pound, which is 40 per cent. discount off the contract price. The farmers are taking the matter as calmly as could be expected under the circumstances.

IN THE PEST HOUSE.

South Bend's Smallpox Case Being Carefully Guarded.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 5.-James Mc Namara, of St. Louis, who developed a case of smallpox at the police station Saturday morning, has been removed to the pesthouse west of the city. Owen McClear, Frederick Culp and a robber named Hogan, who slept in the cell with McNamara. were also sent to the pesthouse. The police station has been thoroughly fumigated, but is still under quarantine, the red flag floating in the breeze. Chief Rose and six officers are prisoners, and are not allowed to pass beyond the ropes shutting off the station from the rest of the world. They will be kept in until Monday, and longer if necessary. Their meals are prepared at a restaurant and left on the sidein front of the station. No one is allowed to enter the station. The School Board to-day ordered that all school children not vaccinated be vaccinated at once. No fresh cases of small-pox have developed and it is believed the prompt attention prevented an epidemic

BEACH GIVES BOND.

The Terre Haute Indicted Banker Now Held in $19,000.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 5.-Banker Beach gave $8,000 bond to-day on the indictments found against him Saturday. John G. Williams, general manager of the Vandalia road, and Spencer Ball, a son-inlaw of Beach, and who is one of the proprietors of the Gazette, signed the bond. The defense asked for a change of venue from Judge Taylor, and the latter set the cases down for trial by Judge McGregor, of the Clay and Putnam circuit. Beach is now under $19,000 bond, of which $11,000 was given on the indictments returned by former grand jury. He will be arraigned at the next term of court, which begins in the latter part of this month, and Prosecutor Hamill says the prosecution will insist on an early trial.

NEW TIN PLATE PLANT. Col. Conger Sells Out and Starts Another at Elwood. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELWOOD, Ind., Feb. 5.-To-day it was formally decided by a party of English capitalists to locate a third tin-plate plant in this city, with a capacity of nearly four thousand boxes per week. It is stated that Col. A. L. Conger, of Akron, O., will be a large stockholder in the concern and that it was for that reason he disposed of his stock in the American tin-plate factory to W. B. Leeds, of Richmond. Mr. Leeds was already a large stockholder in the concern.

Rev. J. E. Gilbert at Lafayette.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Fab. 5.-The interests of the American Society of Religious Education were represented in this city yesterday by the general secretary, Rev. J. E. Gilbert, D. D. At the hour of morning service he spoke in Trinity M. E. Church on the subject of "Bible Study and Character Building," receiving at the close a large number of names for the Bible Readers' Union. In the afternoon the Sundayschool teachers of the city whre addressed in Second Presbyterian Church, and large Sunday-school teachers' club formed. with Professor Craig, of the university, as leader. This morning Dr. Gilbert spoke at Purdue University, and a committee was secured to form a students' Bible club These three fraternities, all under the direction of the above named society, were heartily indorsed by those who heard the representations concerning them.

Work for the Unemployed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Feb. 5.-The providing of public work for the unemployed in this city was begun here this morning. The City Council, at the urgent request of citizens expressed at a public meeting, decided to raise the grade of a street which connects East Columbus, a suburb, with the city proper, and this will give two weeks' work to a hundred men. The County Commissioners purchased thirteen acres of timber land just south of the city and hired a foreman, who will superintend all laborers who will work cutting wood. The price paid for all public labor has been fixed at $1 a day. It is believed that there is enough work in sight to keep the unemployed busy until the city can get ready to put in a

John R. Bonnell Made Chairman. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 5 .- The new Republican central committee met today in the court room for the purpose of organization. All the townships were represented, there being thirty-five of the forty-two committeemen present. C. N. Williams, the -retiring chairman, spoke, after which John R. Bonnell was unani-mously elected in his place. The executive committee will be named by Chairman Bonnell within the next few days. The selection of a secretary and treasurer was placed in the hands of the executive committee when appointed. The committee then adjourned to meet Saturday, March 3, at which time the date of holding the county convention will be fixed.

Indiana Deaths.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 5 .- Jerry L. Taylor died at his home in this city this afternoon. He was insurance manager for Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing Company, with whom he had been for years. He was at one time a leading Michigan business man, but the great fires at Man-istee destroyed all he owned.

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 5.—Jacob Scholl died at his home in Lyons Station, five miles east of here, this morning. He was ninety years old, and has been a resident of Fayette county for sixty years. Seven children survive, three of them prominent farmers of the county.

Stole the Wedding Presents.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Feb. 5 .- Last night, while A. B. Swartz, of the First National Bank, of this city, and his wife were at church the house was entered and every drawer, cupboard and package in the house opened and the contents thrown in a heap on the floor. Everything of any value whatever was taken. Having been recently married, and receiving a great amount of silver, china and fine linens, the loss will foot up considerable. Mr. Swartz has nothing left but his furniture. The police have a clew.

500 Men Putting Up Ice. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

LA PORTE, Ind., Feb. 5.-All of the wholesale ice dealers, with the exception of a Louisville firm, commenced storing ice from the lakes in this vicinity this morn-The ice is about eight inches thick and of excellent quality. The ice business is one of LaPorte's chief industries and just at this time it will prove a great boon to the idle laborers, as it will furnish employment for about five hundred men. The work will continue day and night until all the houses are filled.

This afternoon as Henson was coming down on an elevator in the Richardson building Wert stepped in. As they reached the first floor Henson fired, killing Wert at the second shot. The only other occupant of the elevator, a woman, fainted and is now in a dangerous condition.

To Promote Bimetallism.

BOSTON, Feb. 5 .- A meeting of prominent citizens was held here to-day to promote the establishment of international bemetallism, and a representative committee was selected to push forward the work. President Andrews, of Brown University, was elected chairman. The promoters of the movement are opposed to free coinage of silver, but believe that the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act affords an excellent opportunity for advancing the cause of international bimetallism. They think that the needs of commerce will soon compel the international use of silver as well as of gold. The committee includes merchants, legislators, national and State, professors, lawyers, railroad presidents and trustees of large con-

Scenes Attending the Death of Vaillant, the Anarchist.

Went to the Guillotine Shouting "Death to Society" and "Long Live Anarchy" -Princess Colonna Leaves Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 5.-The scenes attending the beheading of August F. Vaillant, the Anarchist who threw the bomb in the Chamber of Deputies, did not differ materially from previous executions of like criminals. There were the same crowds of wantons, outcasts and "night-hawks," mixed with a few respectable people, who visited the Place De La Roquette out of curiosity, and there was the same display of civil and military power always to be seen when "Monsieur De Paris" has work to do. Vaillant's head was chopped at 7:30 a. m. His last words were: "Death to Society! Long live An-

The police arrangements were admirable, and long before the hour set for the execution complete order prevailed everywhere. Every point of vantage about the Place De la Rouquette was occupied. The judicial authorities arrived at the prison at 6:15 and, entering the cell occupied by Vaillant, they woke him and informed him that his last hour had arrived. Vaillant did not seem to be in the least astonished or much alarmed. He turned deathly pale, it is true, but he began dressing with all the haste which could be expected, and remarked to one of the prison attendants: "You see, I was right in saying that my sentence would not be commuted." It was evident from the manner in which he said this that he was considerably disappointed, and that he had built up strong hopes of clemency upon the part of the President of the republic.

While Vaillant was dressing, one of the officers, noticing the Anarchist's hands trembled slightly as he put on his clothes, said: "Have courage, Vaillant." To this Vaillant smiled in a sickly man-ner, and, throwing his head up, replied: "Never fear; I will know how to die." One of the prison officials offered Vaillant a glass of some strong cordial intended to Vaillant put it aside, saying: "I have no need of artificial strength, and despise a man who needs brandy to nerve him to meet his fate." Later one of the attendants offered to assist Vaillant in dressing for his march to the guillotine, but the doomed man said gently, but firmly: "I need no assistance; thank you. I am dressing as quickly as possible, and will not detain you any longer than I can help." In reply to a question as whether he had any statement to make, Vaillant began making a strong profession of Anarchy, defending it in burning words, until it was gently suggested to him that such remarks were useless and out of place. Contrary to expectations, Vaillant did not speak of his mistress, Madame Marchal, or his daughter Sidonie, whose alleged letter asking for a commutation of her father's sentence has been so much discussed. Twice during the preparations for death, Vaillant refused to see the prison chaplain, saying upon one of these occasions: "I do not believe in religion; it is all a sham. Let those who profess religion give some evidence of it by extending a helping hand to the deserving poor. This will do more to crush anarchy than all the armies of the world."

Promptly at 7:20 the officers in charge of the Gardes Republicaine gave the order to "draw swords." Very soon afterwards the black gates of the prison were swung open and Vaillant appeared, head erect and de-flant, between M. Diebler (Monsieur De Paris) and his asistants. The crowd was not slow to notice that no chaplain accompanied the condemned man, and it was said in a loud tone from several among those gathered to witness the execution: "He dies a true Anarchist." Here and there, as Vaillant appeared, were heard a few faint cries of "Vive l'Anarchie." When Vaillant neared the guillotine he glanced upward at the gleaming knife suspended between the two uprights, the blade snin-ing out clear and distinct, owing to the rays of the many lanterns around the scaffold, and then shouted: "Vive l'Anarchie." A moment later, as he was ascending the steps leading to the platform of the guillotine, the desperate Anarchist shouted: "A mortes bourgeoisie" (death to the bourgeoisie.) As he uttered this cry, Vaillant reached the foot of the sliding plank which leads the body of the criminal, when strapped on to it, beneath the knife. After one quick push he cried, "Death to so-

Diebler's assistants and thrown upon the sliding plank. or basculo, to which he was strapped with remarkable rapidity, and in less time than it takes to write it, his body was thrust through the lunette, or hole in the end of the scaffold upon which a half circle or locking piece falls after the head through, a spring was touched and the shining knife above the Anarchist's neck sped downward with a swift and noiseless movement. There was a terrible spurt of blood, and the head of Vaillant, separated from its trunk, fell into the basket of sawdust, and all was over. With the greatest rapidity the head and body of the Anarchist were gathered up, placed in separate baskets and were escorted away from the scene of the execution at a gallop. As the body was being carried away the crowds made a tremendous rush forward for the guillotine, but were restrained by the troops and police, who compelled the spectators to remain in place until the lotine had been entirely removed. One fact that among the crowd gathered to witness it was a large number of people, male and female, in masquerade dress, who had come from the balls held last night. Among the women present were some of the lowest of the demi-monde, who behaved in the most outrageously indecent manner. Before the execution M. Biebler, fearing a bomb might be thrown, caused the crowds to be moved back from the guillotine. GAMA STILL WAITING.

He Has Not Yet Made His Promised Attack on Nictheroy.

LOUDON, Feb. 6.-The Standard has a letter from Rio Janeiro which mentions an alleged plan of Admiral De Mello to transport two thousand troops from Rio Grande do Sul and land them outside the harbor of Rio Janeiro, and then make a combined land and sea attack upon the city. Both sides, the writer says, seem to be playing a waiting game. A dispatch from Rio says that up to the hour this dispatch is filed the insurgents have not made an attack upon Nictheroy. and unless some decided change takes place in the attitude of the national guard at Nictheroy it is probable that the guardsmen will remain loyal to President Peixoto, and that the insurgents will have to still further postpone their decisive attempt to capture the city mentioned. The supporters of the government say that Admiral Da Gama's announced intention of making an attack in force yeterday or to-day upon Nictheroy is only another "bluff" upon the part of the rebel commander, who is said to lack the energy and ability necessary to successfully carry out any such plan.

HAS LEFT FRANCE. The Princess Colonna Reported to Have Salled for America.

PARIS, Feb. 5.-The Princess Colonna, daughter of Mrs. John Mackay, sailed for America on Wednesday. This news set at rest a rumor that she and her husband had become reconciled on his giving a satisfactory pledge of good conduct in the future. After the French court allowed the Prince the right to see his children twice a week, the Princess found her situation intolerable. Besides, from the elaborate accounts by the French press of the Count's earlier severities, her friends augured unfavorable action by the court. Hence it was determined that she should remove from its capricious jurisdiction. The Princess, with her three children, left the Hotel Brighton on Tuesday evening. as if for a moonlight promenade, Mrs. Mackey remaining behind to lull suspicion. The spies of the Prince and the domestics waited until 3 o'clock in the morning, and then informed the hotel proprietor, who, in turn, informed Mrs. Mackay of what she already knew. When the Prince called on Wednesday to see his children he was simply informed that they were out with their mother, and it was not until his wife had time to board the steamer that he was informed that she and her children were beyond the jurisdiction of the French courts. All inquiries were purposely answered so that they would mislead, in order to give the Princess time to escape. Childs's honorary pallbearers: John fight in America. It is reported that the Prince sailed for New York on Saturday.

He Urges the Reichstag to Approve the Russian Treaty.

THE KAISER SPEAKS.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.-The Emperor this evening attended the dinner given by Chancellor Von Caprivi to members of Parliament and delivered a speech. In this he announced the fact that the treaty with Russia had been signed. His Majesty said that never before had the Reichstag made a decision fraught with such important consequences as this treaty. Its rejection, he said, would inevitably be followed with a tariff war, and not at a remote period by real war. "Let every deputy." he continued, "realize his responsibility. The favorable terms of the treaty were entirely due to personal intervention of the Czar and his strong love of peace. The treaty is marked throughout by love and peace. The Czar had been compelled to overcome a vigorous resistance on the part of the manufacturing and commercial interests of Russia," The Emperor was exceedingly gracious and animated, and remained at the soiree for three hours. Herr Levitzow, the President of the Reichstag, submitted to the Emperor the grievances of the farmers against the financial reform bill. His Majesty listened attentively, and then repeated that the passage of the bill was of high political necessity. By passing it the Reichstag would win the lasting gratitude

This and other amendments adopted by the House of Lords has given the parish councils bill its quiet use. It is generally agreed that home rule was saved by men who have gone out of their way to show that they are just as brutally indifferent to English as to Irish reform. Lord Salisbury has trampled as ruthlessly upon Mr. Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire as on Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Fowler. We should not be surprised if last night's work was the beginning of a revolution of the Unionists against Lord Salisbury's leadership."

Wouldn't Have Their Wives Whipped. BERLIN, Feb. 5 .- Letters received here from German settlers in the Cameroons brace up the condemned man's nerves; but | colony confirm the statements already made in these dispatches to the effect that the outbreak in the Cameroons was caused by the action of the German Governor in flogging the wives of native soldiers. The Dahomeyans then went to the government house at Berlltown, shot the judge, killing him in mistake for the Governor, seized the government buildings and drove out the German settlers, who fled to the gunboats for protection. The mutineers, as already cabled, also seized 1,500 magazine rifles and 500,000 rounds of ammunition.

Cannot Serve Two Masters. BERLIN, Feb. 5.-In the Reichstag to day Herr Friedberg, National Liberal, asked what was the government's position in regard to the Coburg succession question. He said that the dual position of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha as a German sovereign and as a Prince of a foreign state was incompatible with German national feeling, and he suggested that the Duke should renounce his British nationality. Chancellor Von Caprivi, in reply, declared that the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was the lawful sovereign of the duchy, and that, his sovereignity excluded all dependence upon a foreign state.

MR. CHILDS'S FUNERAL.

Representatives of Many Societies Will Attend the Exercises To-Day.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.-The arrangements for the funeral of the late George W. Childs, which occurs to-morrow afternoon from St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, are complete. There will be delegations from the Boston and New York press clubs and a number of New York publishers and prominent editors will come over from New York on a special train tomorrow morning. St. James's Church has a seating capacity of only about 1,200, and this will barely accommodate the relatives and immediate friends of the family, honorary pall bearers, Ledger employes and delegations from the various organizations which desire to be present. The floral tributes will be very elaborate. There will be a separate piece from every department of the Ledger office. President Prescott, of the International Typographical Union, to-day wired to secure a suitable design, and numerous local organizations will send tributes. The International Typographical Union will be represented by two delegates from New fork and Philadelphia. seats will be reserved in the church to
